

Happy #SUPERMANDAY! Find out why it's celebrated on June 12th

Today is the day of the Man of Steel, who rose to fame in the pages of Action Comics # 1 in 1938. The streaming platform, HBO Max, contains many titles about this character. Today is this superhero's day, the last son of Krypton, a multi-generational classic who never goes out of style. This idea came to life in 2013 when Superman turned 75 and the movie Man of Steel was released. In the city of Cleveland, USA, the initiative to introduce a bill was presented, wherein June 12th was declared as Superman Day in tribute to Jerry Siegel and Joe Shuster, residents of the city and creators of the superhero. The HBO Max platform will include major titles to commemorate this great superhero such as the film that premiered this year: JUSTICE LEAGUE: THE SNYDER CUT, where Bruce Wayne (Ben Affleck), determined for Superman's (Henry Cavill) final sacrifice to not be in vain, joins forces with Diana Prince (Gal Gadot) to recruit a team of metahumans in order to protect the world from an imminent threat. Additionally, the movie MAN OF STEEL will be available, which tells the story of a boy with extraordinary powers who is not from Earth. As a young man, he travels to find out where he comes from and why he was sent here. But the hero in him must emerge if he wants to save the world from annihilation and become the symbol of hope for all mankind. The cast is headed by Henry Cavill as Superman and Amy Adams as Lois Lane. Henry Cavill and Ben Affleck also star in the incredible film BATMAN V. SUPERMAN: DAWN OF JUSTICE. Fearing that Superman's (Cavill) actions will get out of control, Batman (Affleck) takes on the Man of Steel, while the world argues over what kind of superhero it really needs.
