‘The Killing of the Golden Rooster’, the new series, premieres November 12 on HBO Max

Twenty years later, new voices and archival footage shed light on the questions that still surround the death of the Mexican regional music icon.HBO Max announces that the new HBO original documentary series ‘THE KILLING OF THE GOLDEN ROOSTER’ will premiere on November 12. Twenty years after the murder of the Mexican regional music icon, the production reconstructs the hours that shaped his story and revisits the questions that, two decades later, remain unanswered.Over the course of three episodes, the series brings together testimonies from family close to the artist, journalists, investigators, and figures from the Mexican regional music scene, along with archival and investigative material.impact of his passing, and the legacy of an artist whose voice continues to resonate across generations.‘THE KILLING OF THE GOLDEN ROOSTER’ is an original HBO documentary series produced by Sula Entertainment and Lemon Studios.

CREDITSTitle: “VALENTÍN: THE DEATH OF THE GOLDEN ROOSTER”Documentary series / true crime - HBO Original Global premiere on HBO Max: November 12, 2026Linear premiere in Mexico: HBO Channel at 10:00 p.m. (weekly premiere) Production Companies: Sula Entertainment and Lemon StudiosExecutive Producers (Sula Entertainment): Alejandro Sugich and Julieta PeralesExecutive Producers (Lemon): Érica Sánchez and Fernando RovzarExecutive Producers (HBO Max): Mariano César, Sergio Nakasone, and Cecilia Abraham

